The publisher of this paper, Simon Sheppard, has endured three unlawful police raids in which large quantities of books, printing equipment, records and personal effects have been taken away. His columnist, Luke O'Farrell, has also been raided. All of this has been coordinated by the special "Counter Terrorism Division" in London. How would you like it if your last surviving parent died and left everything to a complete stranger? Not only would you feel betrayed and offended, you'd also be left considerably poorer. Everyone would accept that this is completely abnormal, so much so that if someone dies intestate, that is without making a will, their legacy automatically passes to their nearest relatives.

This deviant behaviour is exactly what our government is doing to us – giving our inheritance away to strangers. This country is massively over-populated yet practically every local council in the country – with central government encouragement – wants to welcome the whole world with open arms. Over-population is the reason house prices and rents are so high, and the source of all the concerns about pollution and damage to the environment. Our heritage, the sense of being British, the ability to walk the streets without being mugged or gang-raped, to live one's life peaceably without being spied upon by hundreds of cameras, or not be harassed by a political police force for expressing opinions, is being systematically destroyed.

Cast your mind back twenty years, if you can. Can you imagine the reaction had what is shown on TV today been shown then? There would have been national uproar. These professional liars would have us believe that the nation that created the greatest empire the world has ever known cannot now provide its own doctors and nurses! The same kosher cabal that controls the TV controls the government – indeed it might truly be said that the TV is the government. Turn it off – better still, get rid of it. Speak out, even if only in workplaces and supermarket queues. Complain about the incessant promotion of the multi-culti utopia that will never exist except in the minds of the deluded. Remember, the people who dreamt up this rubbish don't think it's good for themselves, only that it's good for you. Don't be a coward and leave the fight for the future to a few brave souls like the ones that gave you this newspaper.

TREASON AT WESTMINSTER

The EU Reform Treaty planned for mid-2009 concerns three main areas. First, the Treaty is to give the EU a legal personality; second, the EU is to acquire its own President and Foreign Ministry, with a diplomatic corps and Public Prosecutor; and third, it will abolish the distinction between 'Community' and 'National' bodies. The EU will become a superstate, although not able – yet – to impose taxes directly or declare war.

But perhaps the most significant aspect of the Reform Treaty is that it will render all British subjects citizens of the EU. Citizenship was introduced in the Maastricht Treaty of 1992, but it was attached to membership of one of the nation states that constitute the Union. It had no practical effect because the EU did not exist as a separate legal entity.

Now the Reform Treaty is superior to the constitutions of each member state. It codifies a body of law to which each EU citizen shall be subject. Citizenship is imposed and may not be renounced. Yet the treasonable nature of this Treaty has received no scrutiny at all, for it undermines the constitutional position of our Monarch and renders her impotent to the new suzerain power.

Treason is 'violation by a subject of allegiance to the sovereign or to the state.' The offence of Treason Felony (S.3, 1848) is committed 'If any person whatsoever shall, within the United Kingdom or without, compass, imagine, invent, devise or intend to deprive or depose our most gracious Lady the Queen... from the style, honour, or royal name of the imperial crown of the United Kingdom.'

By giving the EU a legal personality, the Reform Treaty makes our Queen subject to a foreign body and indictable by foreign courts. Her role as a constitutional monarch will thus be annulled: her new status as a citizen of the EU will render her, like the rest of the British people, 'subject to the duties imposed thereby.'

All Cabinet Ministers are Privy Counsellors who must swear an oath to 'bear Faith and Allegiance to the Queen's Majesty; and assist and defend all civil and temporal Jurisdictions, Pre-eminences, and Authorities... against all Foreign Princes, Persons, Prelates, States, or Potentates.' They are all guilty of treason.

A 1965 MORTGAGE

I bought my first house in 1965, shortly after getting married. It was a terraced house in Rosemead Street, off Newbridge Road in Hull. The price was £900 or £950. I walked into Haller's Estate Agents and Mr. Haller told me, "If you pay every week without fail I won't charge you interest." I was working for Bladon's department store at the time, fitting curtains in people's houses. So I paid about £2 every week, never missing a payment, and seven years later when we wanted to move into a new house in Sutton Park I had paid off all but about £100 of the mortgage. T. # TAX ON THIS – TAX ON THAT Most people reading this will no doubt believe that tax revenues are spent entirely on public services. Then you need to wise up because your hard-earned dosh goes straight into the coffers of the banking fraternity!

Firstly, forget all about what the Labour Party, Tories and the rest might say about tax – they are simply full of it, the proverbial that is, and at best will only fob you off with temporary tax cuts to win election votes. Now, many of you are reasonably intelligent and are probably expecting this to be full of the same old waffle, yet you are still reading on!?!? Good, we'll start with a clear and concise explanation of what money is and how the powers-that-be con us, our children, our old folk and nation out of literally billions upon billions of pounds – just so that a few greedy people can live it up at our expense.

Money is merely an artificial expression of wealth. That is, paper notes and metal coins are given a specific value. This value may be exchanged for consumer goods or services of a corresponding value. Money represents the wealth we collectively produce. For example, say we as a nation produce wealth calculated at 20 billion pounds, the banks will have to print 20 billion pounds in money to allow a full exchange of goods, services, etc. So what has this got to do with tax? Simple, you don't need to be a professor of economics to realise that money is nothing more than a means of exchange and has no real intrinsic value in itself. Anybody with more than two brain cells will know that all the government need to do is to print money accordingly, as wealth is produced, and everything will be in balance. "Yes, that's all very well but you have yet to explain all this tax business?" OK, get ready for the bombshell! Firstly, we know that money is spent into circulation as a means of exchange and has no concrete value. Well then, how do you explain the fact that all the money that should be spent into circulation is in fact lent as an interest-bearing loan, repayable back to the private banks?

"Stone the bleedin' crows! You're telling me that the Bank of England actually places money into general circulation as an interest-bearing debt, just for printing the stuff?" Yes, they do just that, and it's been going on for hundreds of years! This is how we obtained our national debt to these money-grabbing vultures. Every time we produce a million pounds worth of wealth, we in turn owe the banks a million pounds, plus interest for good measure. A large amount of our tax is spent servicing this massive debt, which is increasing every year. "Talk about a bloody cheek!" I hear you say, and you'd be right!

Who started World War Two? Ask someone at random and you'll get three possible answers – a fool's answer, the orthodox answer, or the truth. But very few know the truth.

The claim that Hitler, bent on world domination, started the war by invading Poland is pure tosh. Poland was spoiling for war and violent incidents were taking place almost every night on the German-Polish border. Poland was expelling its unwanted Jews into Germany and thousands of ethnic Germans in Danzig (now Gdansk) were being terrorised. Hitler had tried to get a negotiated solution to the problem for a year, without success.

The orthodox answer, that Britain declared war on Germany, is true to a point. When Hitler received the message, as documented by his interpreter Hans Schmidt, he was silent for a full two minutes then turned to his staff to ask "What now?" The reason governments give for going to war, and the real reason, are always different. In fact a secret treaty existed between Britain and Poland such that Britain would "come to Poland's aid" in the event of hostilities from Germany, hence the sabre-rattling by the Poles. "Poland wants war with Germany and Germany will not be able to avoid it

JUDEA DECLARES WAR ON GERMANY

Jews Of All The World Unite In Action

BOYCOTT OF GERMAN GOODS

MASS DEMONSTRATIONS IN MANY DISTRICTS DRAMATIC ACTION

"Daily Express" Special Political Correspondent.
ALL Israel is uniting in wrath against the Nazi onslaught on the Jews in Germany.

Adolf Hitler, swept into power by an appeal to elemental patriotism, is making history of a kind he least expected. Thinking to unite only the German nation to race consciousness he has roused the whole Jewish people to a national renaissance.

The appearance of the swastika symbol of a new Germany has called forth the Lion of Judah, the old battle symbol of Jewish defiance.

Fourteen million Jews dispersed throughout the world have banded together as one man to declare war on the German persecutors of their co-religionists. Sectarian differences and antagonisms have been submerged in one common aim—to stand by the 600,000 Jews of Germany who are terrorised by Hitlerist anti-semitism, and to compel appealing for an end of the Hitler "terror."

Every Rabbi in the City of New York has been placed under a sacred obligation by his own church to devote Saturday's sermon to the plight of the Jews in Germany.

The "New York Times" this morning says a list of a thousand German immigrants who have come to the United States during recent years have been compiled by an overseas Nazi organisation, the object being to use these people for Nazi propaganda in the United States.

HIGHER WAGES FOR STEEL WORKERS

AN INCREASE OF THREE SHILLINGS A WEEK

BRIGHT SPOT IN A BLACK TOWN

THE "Daily Express" has sent a special representative on an unusual mission.

He is touring the north in search of high wages. In his tour he is going to tell the facts about all classes of wages, high and low. He is going to show how low wages reduce the morale of the community. He is going to show how courageous spending raises favourably throughout the community.

In his first dispatch it is revealed that the steel masters of Middlesbrough have been able to make a gesture in the cause of high wages.

Fitters in steel works have recently received an increase of 3s. a week. Their wages are high.

The Powell Duffryn Steam Coal Company of South Wales increased its output by £100,000 last year.

Mr. E. L. Hogg, the chairman and managing director, told shareholders at yesterday's annual meeting that this had not been achieved by a policy of wage reductions.

In fact he revealed that the earnings of their employees were higher than the average of the coal field.

"PEACE CAN BE KEPT IN EUROPE"

MR. RAMSAY MACDONALD faced a crowded House of Commons yesterday afternoon when he spoke about his visits to Paris, Geneva, and Rome, and his talks with Signor Mussolini.

The German, French, Italian, Polish, and Belgian Ambassadors were among a crowd of diplomatic representatives in their special gallery, and Mr. Bruce, of Australia, and other representatives of the Dominions also listened.

Mr. MacDonald, who was greeted with cheers, said: "I take the earliest available opportunity to inform the House regarding what happened while the Foreign Secretary and myself were at Geneva and Rome."

"We were asked for our colleagues here in 1933 in Geneva, first because every man of peace should be a part of the danger of an immediate collapse of the Disarmament Conference, and we felt strongly that it might be possible to avert such a collapse, because we were not at all convinced that it was necessary that it should take place."

LABOUR LEADER BEREAVED
Mr. MacDonald, with Mr. Bruce, Lord Curzon, M.P., and other members of the Labour Party, died last night.

Who started World War Two? Ask someone at random and you'll get three possible answers – a fool's answer, the orthodox answer, or the truth. But very few know the truth.

In fact a secret treaty existed between Britain and Poland such that Britain would "come to Poland's aid" in the event of hostilities from Germany, hence the sabre-rattling by the Poles. "Poland wants war with Germany and Germany will not be able to avoid it even if she wants to" bragged Marshal Rydz-Smigly in August 1939. Germany was tricked into the most destructive, fratricidal war in history, devastating not only for the losers but for the supposed victors as well. The real purpose of the British-Polish treaty was demonstrated by the callous handing over of Poland to Stalin, even before the end of the war.

Hitler solved Germany's serious economic problems by freeing the country from the shackles of international finance. When he did so, Germany's economy boomed. The transformation of the country was incredible, with full employment and hardly any crime – shortly after Hitler's rise to power, magistrates and lawyers suddenly had nothing to do except sit and twiddle their thumbs. Nazi Germany locked up far fewer people per capita than Britain and America do today.

I've checked out Churchill's Second World War and the statement is quite correct – not a single mention of Nazi 'gas chambers,' a 'genocide' of the Jews, or of 'six million' Jewish victims of the war.

This is astonishing. How can it be explained? Eisenhower's Crusade in Europe is a book of 559 pages; the six volumes of Churchill's Second World War total 4,448 pages; and de Gaulle's three-volume Memoires de guerre is 2,054 pages.

In this mass of writing, which altogether totals 7,061 pages (not including the introductory parts), published from 1948 to 1959, one will find no mention either of Nazi 'gas chambers,' a 'genocide' of the Jews, or of 'six million' Jewish victims of the war. We're all familiar with the problem of massive supermarket chains gobbling up land, demolishing familiar landmarks to build yet more concrete monstrosities, and driving shopkeepers and farmers out of business. Our plan will solve these problems once and for all.

The scheme, which is already well advanced, is to merge all the retail companies together and build a single great, massive super-mega-doubleplusgood hypermarket serving the whole of Britain.

The city of Leeds is to be dedicated to the purpose, this location being ideal because of its central location. Also, large areas of Leeds have already been flattened to build motorways, so bulldozing the lot to make way for a gigantic city-sized superstore won't be so much of a shock. All roads lead to Leeds, and we propose changing the law to allow mobility scooters on motorway hard shoulders so our old folk can drive on them. Roadside emergency telephones will be fitted with token meters so that pensioners' vehicles can be recharged en route, ensuring that old folk from remote regions will not expire during the long journey to buy a packet of Woodbines.

Best of all, due to economies of scale, prices will plummet and the enormous buying power of the Somcohen's conglomerate will allow an unprecedented selection of goods to be offered. Some sample items from the firm's comprehensive range are shown. The promised low prices will certainly bring people from Land's End to John O'Groats!

THE OTHER SIDE OF SLAVERY

The abolition of slavery in 1807 is a great credit to this country. At that time however, most people were too busy working to even know of its existence. Those who toiled in the factories and mills of industrial cities like London, Leeds, Manchester and Sheffield hadn't the luxury of discussing the political issues of the day. At the height of the anti-slavery campaign William Cobbett wrote to Wilberforce:

'You seem to have great affection for the negroes... I feel for the hard-pinched, the ill-treated, the beaten down labouring classes of England, Scotland and Ireland, to whom you do all the mischief that it is in your power to do; because you describe their situation as good, and because you do, in some degree, at any rate, draw the public attention away from their sufferings.'

In an impassioned letter to the Leeds Mercury in 1830, Richard Oastler wrote:

'Thousands of our fellow creatures are existing in a state of slavery more horrid than are the victims of that hellish system, colonial slavery... The very streets which receive the droppings of the Anti-Slavery Society are every morning wet by the tears of innocent victims at the accursed shrine of avarice, who are compelled, not by the cart whip of the negro slave driver, but by the equally appalling thong or strap of the overlooker, to hasten, half-dressed, but not half-fed, to those magazines of British infantile slavery – the worsted mills in the town of Bradford.'

Oastler was a Tory land agent of estates near Huddersfield and Leeds and led the Ten Hours Movement, which aimed to reduce the working day of factory children to 10 hours. The West Riding of Yorkshire was the heart of the reform movement.

In 1833 children as young as five, but more often seven, had a working day of 14-16 hours. Factory owners permitted overseers to flog and maltreat children and often took an active part themselves. In many factories children were employed on 12-hour night shifts. Thousands of children were maimed and deformed by factory work, lack of sleep often leading to accidents involving several children and adults.

Children were also employed in the mines, starting underground at the age of about seven or eight, when they would spend long hours alone in the darkness of the pit. Older boys and girls hauled loaded wagons along tramways underground. Small children as young as five or six sometimes worked on the surface, in charge of the pit-head winding gear, responsible for the lives of colliers being hauled up and down the shaft.

'Poverty Natural'

Although the clergy, rich merchants and political reformers all united in protest at the immorality of African slavery, there was no such campaign on behalf of child slaves. In fact, many clergy and leading politicians argued that working long hours in the factories was good for children. One senior clergyman, the Rev. Thomas Malthus, wrote in 1798 that poverty was natural and that to help the working class would be detrimental since it would enable them to live longer. When Oastler's Movement argued for a reduction in the working day for children, the Government opposed it, saying that it would be detrimental to trade. Cobbett scathingly commented on the Establishment position:

'A most surprising discovery has been made, namely, that all our greatness and prosperity, that our superiority over other nations, is owing to 30,000 little girls in Lancashire. If these little girls work two hours less in a day than they do now, it would occasion the ruin of the country.'

For the little girls of Lancashire, the bent and crippled children of Bradford's mills, the kids with coal trains strapped to their backs, there was no Wilberforce and no pamphlets being circulated. Some things were acceptable to campaign for, others were unlawful. However, after decades of struggle, with hundreds of activists killed, imprisoned or transported, the mid-19th century saw the legalization of the Trades Unions. In 1837 George Loveless, the leading figure of the Tolpuddle Martyrs, made a speech to his fellow labourers:

'England has for many years been lifting her voice against the abominable practice of negro slavery. Numbers of great men have talked, have laboured and have struggled until at length emancipation has been granted to the black slaves in the West Indies. When will they dream of advocating the cause of England's white slaves?'

At long last, starting in 1867, a series of Factory Acts cut children's working hours, and also introduced the idea of providing education to working class children.

Why was it then that for sixty years after the abolition of black slavery, the enslavement of British children was still acceptable? Why were people able to find the time, the conscience, and the effort to campaign for people in a far-off land? Child slavery was on the doorstep, and could easily have been eradicated. The British Government put the full force of its Navy, Army and Diplomatic Service into abolishing the African slave trade. Pressure was put on other nations, risking wars and damaging commerce, to enforce a world-wide ban. But the same Government, clergy and political reformers would not lower the working day of a child of seven in Britain to 10 hours!

White Slavery Ignored

Between 1500 and 1830 about a million Europeans were captured by Muslim corsairs, sold in slave markets on the Barbary Coast and treated mercilessly. After a successful series of raids a European slave cost less than an onion, with the result that whites were simply worked to death and then replaced. Any gentry that were captured were held to ransom. Many Italian coastal towns were completely depopulated by the raids. Cornwall and Ireland were also targets.

Wilberforce and his ilk championed the cause of African slavery while the plight of child slaves in Britain was ignored. The bleeding hearts of the day preferred to campaign about African slavery because then, as now, their true interest is only to feel good about themselves.

So don't preach to us, touchy-feely liberal do-gooder, when it was your kind that emancipated the African slave while leaving our own children to work 16-hour days in the factories!

The modern banking system manufactures money out of nothing. The process is perhaps the most astounding piece of sleight of hand that was ever invented. Banking was conceived in iniquity and born in sin. Bankers own the Earth. Take it away from them, but leave them the power to create money, and with the flick of the pen they will create enough money to buy it back again... Take this great power away from them and all great fortunes like mine will disappear, and they ought to disappear, for then this would be a better and happier world to live in. But if you want to continue to be slaves of the banks and pay the cost of your own slavery, then let bankers continue to create money and control credit. Sir Josiah Stamp, director of the Bank of England 1928-1941, speaking in Texas in 1927.

ROLL YOUR OWN RELIGION!

Reports have been received of up to 2,500 mosques being registered in Lancashire. Attempts by the Sheeple to obtain official confirmation, or indeed denial, have failed. The practice is reported to be concentrated in the Borough of Pendle.

It seems that Lancashire Muslims are so devout they spend all their time praying in their front rooms. Their houses are officially "used as a place of worship" which exempts the property from Council Tax.

Political Correctness dictates that one religion is as good as any another, and "rolling your own" could be a great new hobby! Anyone can put a few ornaments on their mantelpiece and rename their bedrooms 'Vestries.'

If officials get stropky, rope in some local urchins and hold a service. Ordination as a Reverend can be obtained from the United Life Church website, if required.

People are paying exorbitant sums for little more than for having their bins emptied every week and local councils can't even do that without increasingly petty rules being imposed. Yet they always have plenty of money for their latest politically-correct hobby-horse. Many councils are so inept they can't even keep public conveniences open.

It is said that only two things in life are certain: death and taxes. But that doesn't mean we should meekly pay everything demanded. We seldom see a politician around here you see, so we're not sure what to do with you." "No problem, just let me in" says the man. "Really, I've made up my mind. I want to be in Heaven" insists the politician but St. Peter replies, "I'm sorry, but we have our rules."

With that, St. Peter escorts him to a lift and he goes down, down, down to Hell. The doors open and he finds himself in the middle of an enormous, verdant golf course. In the distance is a clubhouse and standing in front are all his friends and other politicians who had worked with him, and everyone is in evening dress and very happy. They run to greet him, hug him and reminisce about the good times they had while getting rich on parliamentary salaries, expense accounts and all the other perks. They play a friendly game of golf and then dine on lobster and caviar. Also present is the Devil, who really is a very friendly person who has a grand time dancing and telling jokes.

They all have such a good time that before he realises it, it's time to go. Everyone gives him a big hug and waves as the lift doors close. The lift goes up, up, up and the doors reopen on Heaven where St. Peter is waiting for him. "Now it's time to visit Heaven." So twenty-four hours pass with the politician joining a group of contented souls drifting from cloud to cloud, playing the harp and singing. The time passes very pleasantly and, before he realises it, the twenty-four hours have gone by and St. Peter returns. "Well then, you've spent a day in Hell and another in Heaven. Now choose your eternity." He reflects for a minute, then answers, "Well, I never thought I'd say it, I mean Heaven has been delightful, but I think I would be better off with my friends in Hell."

So St. Peter escorts him to the lift and he goes down, down, down to Hell. Now the lift doors open and he finds himself in the middle of a wilderness, covered with litter and waste. He sees his friends, dressed in rags, ceaselessly shuffling along picking up litter and putting it into black plastic bags. The Devil comes over and puts his arm round his shoulders. "I don't understand," stammers the politician, "Yesterday I was here and there was a golf course and a club and we ate lobster and caviar and danced and had a great time. Now there is only a wasteland full of rubbish and my friends look miserable." The Devil looks at him, smiles and says, "Yesterday we were campaigning. Today you voted for us."

GOLD FOR SHEKELS

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr Goldwin Diamond, has announced that the last 300 tons of Britain's gold reserves was sold on the Israeli Stock Exchange yesterday. The sum realised was ILS (Israel New Shekels) 666bn, which at current exchange rates, and a lot of working out which would be inappropriate in a family newspaper, amounts to a portion of chips and a pickled onion for every man, woman and child in Britain.

Regular Sheeple readers will remember that beginning in 1999 the then Chancellor, Gordon Brown, sold 400 tons of Britain's gold reserves to buy Euros, dollars and Yen. More than half of Britain's bullion reserve was sold at a time when gold was at its lowest price for years, at $275 an ounce. Gold is currently over $700/oz.

Commenting on the latest sale, an official source, who asked not to be named, but which we can reveal emanates from Buckingham Palace, said "We think that Mr Diamond might perhaps have got a better deal but I'm sure he knows what's best for us."
